How do I know whether I am eligible to get married in Buckden?

(a) Residence requirements

The law requires that at least one of you must be either resident in the parish or on the church electoral roll (which means being a regular member of the congregation). If Buckden is very much your 'home town' but you have recently moved out of the family home (particularly if you are a full time student or a member of the armed forces), please contact the vicar for advice on residence requirements.

(b) Previous marriages

If either of you has been married before, please contact the vicar as early as possible in your planning. A previous marriage will not necessarily make marriage in church inappropriate, but it is important to talk through the issues at an early stage. You will need to bring with you to the initial meeting with the vicar your decree absolute.

(c) Other considerations

If you have questions about other issues that might affect your eligibility for marriage, please contact the vicar as soon as possible. If we don't know the answer to your question, we will be able to find out for you.

What are the legal preliminaries for marriage?

According to the law, you can get married in church either after Banns, or by Licence. Calling Banns of Marriage is by far the most common (and cheapest!) method. The law requires that your banns be called in the parish where you will be getting married, and in the parish(es) where each of you lives. You are responsible for contacting the parish priests of all the applicable parishes to ensure that banns are called. The priest who marries you will need to see all the Certificates of Banns. Most couples enjoy coming to church to hear their banns called.

In some circumstances a Licence (usually a Common Licence, occasionally a Special License) would be more appropriate; the priest who is to marry you will advise if this is the case.

What happens when I enquire about getting married at St Mary's?

When you first got in touch with the church about planning your wedding, you will have been given this leaflet together with an application form, and will be able to fix an initial appointment with the vicar or with the priest who will be marrying you. You need to fill in the first page of the form with your personal and contact details and your preferred date and time for the service. Don't worry too much about the second page yet, unless there are details that you wish to make a note of. Bring this form to the initial meeting with the priest, and they will explain what happens next.

Meeting with the priest

Usually you will have a meeting with the priest as soon as possible after you make your initial enquiry. This meeting is to discuss residence requirements and any other issues (e.g. previous marriages), to talk through the decisions you will need to make about the marriage service, and to confirm the date and time of the service; occasionally other events mean that it is not possible to have your first choice of date or time for your wedding. The priest may suggest a second meeting, if it seems that there is a lot to discuss.

Once you have seen the priest for the initial interview, you may wish to use the information in this booklet to begin to plan what music, readings, and hymns you would like to have at your marriage service. Please feel free to contact us if we can help you with those decisions.

You will also be given a copy of the booklet 'preparing for marriage', which looks beyond the wedding day and helps you both prepare for your life together. Your priest will invite you to talk about what you learned from working through the booklet. Please also feel free to be in contact with your priest at any point during the process if you would like to talk through anything - we are here to help.

As the wedding day approaches, the priest will wish to meet you again to finalise the details of the service, and to fix a date and time for the rehearsal, which will usually be during the week before the wedding. The rehearsal is held in church, and is particularly for the bride and groom, best man, chief bridesmaid and father of the bride. Many couples make this into a family event, and invite others along, too.

Planning your marriage service

Order of Service

You may be getting your order of service printed professionally, or producing it yourself. Either way, please ask the priest to send you a copy of what needs to be included.

Flowers

For all enquiries, please contact Ann Moore on 01480 812577.

Couples can make their own arrangements for the flowers using a florist / friend / relative, or can make use of the church flower arrangers. Whatever you decide to do, please contact Ann Moore first to let her know your plans.

During Lent (the period of six weeks before Easter) wedding flowers must be removed after the service so that they are not in church on the Sunday. Around the time of the major church festivals (Christmas, Easter, Harvest etc) there are already decorations in church which may not be removed, but other flowers of the couple's choice may be added.

Occasionally we have more than one wedding booked on the same day, which means that the same flowers are used for both services.

Bells

We have an excellent team of bellringers. Please confirm as soon as possible if you would like bells after your marriage service, so that we can ensure that they will be available.

Confetti

We ask that you don't use confetti in the church or churchyard, but that you save it for outside the churchyard gates. Using lavender or similar instead of confetti is permitted in the churchyard.

Timing

A standard marriage service with one reading and two hymns usually lasts about 35 minutes. It is good if the bride aims to arrive 5 minutes early to allow time for adjusting the veil etc, and for photographs outside the church. Don't forget to allow time at the end of the service for more photographs etc. before heading off for the reception.

Video

Couples are to obtain a video licence from ECL Ltd (a leaflet is available from the vicar, or you can visit www.videolicence.co.uk)

Videeing should take place discreetly and without causing any hindrance to those attending or conducting the service, from a position either by the lectern or the pulpit, or at the rear cross aisle. There is a courtesy fee payable in advance of the service, and the fees for the organist and choir are increased.

Photography

We allow still (non-flash) photography at the following points in the service:

- a long shot from the rear cross aisle during the first hymn
- a posed long shot at the signing of the registers
- as the bridal couple are processing out of church

The current data protection legislation should be observed if any photographs or video images are held digitally.

Choosing a reading

You will need to choose at least one reading from the New Testament. Some popular choices include:

I Corinthians 13	Colossians 3.12-17
Ephesians 3.14-end	I John 4.7-12
Philippians 4.4-9	John 2.1-11
John 15.9-17

If you would two Bible readings, why not choose a reading from the Old Testament, such as

Genesis 1.26-28
Song of Solomon 2.10-13; 8.6-7

If you do not have access to a bible, please ask your priest, who will be able to lend you one, or give you copies of the suggested readings. Alternatively, if you have internet access, go to <http://bible.oremus.org> and type in the bible reference exactly as it is given in the list above into the first 'search' box.

Some couples also like to have a poem or other non-biblical reading at their wedding – please do discuss this with your priest. You may want advice about whether a particular reading is appropriate.

Readings may be read by a friend or member of the family. Biblical readings may be read by the priest if you prefer.

Choosing Hymns, songs and other music

Almost all couples wish to engage the organist. If you have a family friend who you would like to play the organ for your service, please contact the church organist to negotiate this. There is a small fee for the use of the organ in this case.

Some couples also wish to book the choir, either to sing a simple anthem or to help lead the congregational singing. Let us know as soon as possible if you think you would like to book the choir.

Choosing the music for your wedding can be a great opportunity to think about what the service means to you, but it can also be quite daunting! Here page are some suggestions – these are just the ones that are chosen most often (usually because they are good, and people like them!). You can also ask the organist for advice.

Choosing hymns

There is usually a hymn near the start of the service, and one near the end. If you want an extra hymn, it would usually go after the readings. Think about the words, and also think about whether your friends and family will know the tune,. You can find the words and tunes to many well-known hymns at www.cyberhymnal.org.

Love divine all loves excelling
Come down, O love divine
All things bright and beautiful
Give me joy in my heart
Amazing grace
Great is thy faithfulness
Dear Lord and Father of mankind
O Jesus I have promised
Be thou my vision

All creatures of our God and King
Jerusalem (And did those feet ...)
One more step along the world I go
Make me a channel of your peace
Be still for the presence of the Lord
Praise to the Lord, the Almighty
Praise, my soul, the king of heaven
For the beauty of the earth
Lord of all hopefulness

Music for the entrance and exit, and at the signing of the register

Most couples choose organ music at the entrance and exit. During the signing of the register you might choose a choir anthem (if you have booked the choir, and subject to availability) or an organ piece. Please make sure you have consulted the organist and /or choir director about your choice of music – if you are not sure what exactly you want, they will be able to recommend something.
